The project is a low cost tour designed to provide students and project participants with an introduction to jazz and live music in a historically acclaimed jazz venue. The project is unique because it uses student musicians as tour moderators. The student Musicians conducting the tours attend the premier institutions in the nation for musical training. We expect to leverage the youth and talent of these musicians to inspire project participants, especially students, to explore live music and the life skills gained through musical training. Program contact: 617-828-1754 musicproject@wallyscafe.com Email musicproject@wallyscafe.com to request a pdf with full details.

Venue Ideas for Visiting Music Groups & Performers: Student music groups from all over the world are coming to Boston and are looking for places to perform. These bands, orchestras and choirs, comprised of very talented and enthusiastic music students, many on their first visit to Boston, perform free of charge – all that is required is that they are given an audience or a public place to perform in. These performance occur primarily in February, March and April.

Please help us expand our list. Email Stacy Shreffler, Media Relations & Group Sales Manager at sshreffler@bostonusa.com with new venue information to be added to the directory. Highly trafficked areas like Faneuil Hall Marketplace and The Shops at the Prudential are very popular; a suitable venue might also be a hospital, office atrium, museum or stage (prior to the main event).
